Once there was a little mouse who lived near a pumpkin patch.
The chilly winds of autumn blew, and he thought, "I need a warm home!"

He found a pumpkin lying on its side. "Perfect!" he thought.

To get in, the mouse nibbled a tiny hole in the middle.

Inside, he thought, "My friends need a bigger door to visit me!"
So, he nibbled a bigger hold next to his tiny door.

"It's dark in here," the mouse realized.
So, he nibbled one more hole above, for some light.

Happy with his new home, he invited his friends over.
"Happy Halloween!" they cheered.
